

Chiral Superconductivity: Systems and Mechanisms

Prof. Zhenyu Zhang

International Center for Quantum Design of Functional Materials (ICQD)
University of Science and Technology of China

This talk will briefly review some recent advances in theoretical and experimental studies of superconducting systems that possess definitive and physically nontrivial chirality, including some of our own efforts on trying to understand the underlying physical origins of the chirality.